NEW QUESTION: 2

A retail company is currently hosting a Java-based application in its on-premises data center. Management wants the DevOps Engineer to move this application to AWS. Requirements state that while keeping high availability, infrastructure management should be as simple as possible. Also, during deployments of new application versions, while cost is an important metric, the Engineer needs to ensure that at least half of the fleet is available to handle user traffic. What option requires the LEAST amount of management overhead to meet these requirements?

- A. Create an AWS CodeDeploy deployment group and associate it with an Auto Scaling group configured to launch instances across subnets in different Availability Zones. Configure an in-place deployment with a custom deployment configuration with the MinimumHealthyHosts option set to type FLEET_PERCENT and a value of 50.
- B. Create an AWS Elastic Beanstalk Java-based environment using Auto Scaling and load balancing. Configure the network setting for the environment to launch instances across subnets in different Availability Zones. Use "Rolling with additional batch" as a deployment strategy with a batch size of 50%.
- C. Create an AWS Elastic Beanstalk Java-based environment using Auto Scaling and load balancing. Configure the network options for the environment to launch instances across subnets in different Availability Zones. Use "Rolling" as a deployment strategy with a batch size of 50%.
- D. Create an AWS CodeDeploy deployment group and associate it with an Auto Scaling group configured to launch instances across subnets in different Availability Zones. Configure an in-place deployment with a CodeDeploy.HalfAtAtime configuration for application deployments.

Answer: D

Explanation:

Rolling with batches keep 100% up you need 50%. With rolling deployments, Elastic Beanstalk splits the environment's EC2 instances into batches and deploys the new version of the application to one batch at a time, leaving the rest of the instances in the environment running the old version of the application.

NEW QUESTION: 4

A security engineer has implemented an internal user access review tool so service teams can baseline user accounts and group memberships. The tool is functional and popular among its initial set of onboarded teams. However, the tool has not been built to cater to a broader set of internal teams yet. The engineer has sought feedback from internal stakeholders, and a list of summarized requirements is as follows:

* The tool needs to be responsive so service teams can query it, and then perform an automated response action.

* The tool needs to be resilient to outages so service teams can perform the user access review at any point in time and meet their own SLAs.

* The tool will become the system-of-record for approval, reapproval, and removal life cycles of group memberships and must allow for data retrieval after failure.

Which of the following need specific attention to meet the requirements listed above? (Choose three.)

A. Scalability

B. Availability

C. Usability

D. Latency

E. Maintainability

F. Recoverability

Answer: B,D,F
