A company is trying to limit the risk associated with the use of unapproved USB devices to copy documents. Which of the following would be the BEST technology control to use in this scenario?

- A. DLP

- C. Audit logs
- D. Content filtering

Answer: A

NEW QUESTION: 2

```
log - Jan2009
log_01_2010
log_Feb2010
log_Feb2011
log-sum-2012
```

```
PathMatcher matcher = FileSystems.getDefault ().getPathMatcher
```

```
("glob:??*_1");
```

- A. 0
- B. 1
- C. 2
- D. 3
- E. 4
- F. 5

Answer: B

Explanation:

The glob pattern is: any three characters, followed by `_`, followed by any number of characters, and ending with a `1`.

Only `log_Feb2011` matches this pattern.

Note:

You can use glob syntax to specify pattern-matching behavior. A glob pattern is specified as a string and is matched against other strings, such as directory or file names. Glob syntax follows several simple rules:

An asterisk, ``, matches any number of characters (including none).

 Two asterisks, ``, works like `*` but crosses directory boundaries. This syntax is generally used for matching complete paths.

*A question mark, `?`, matches exactly one character.

*Braces specify a collection of subpatterns. For example:

`{sun,moon,stars}` matches "sun", "moon", or "stars."

`{temp*,tmp*}` matches all strings beginning with "temp" or "tmp."

*Square brackets convey a set of single characters or, when the hyphen character (`-`) is used, a range of characters. For example:

`[aeiou]` matches any lowercase vowel.

`[0-9]` matches any digit.

`[A-Z]` matches any uppercase letter.

`[a-z,A-Z]` matches any uppercase or lowercase letter.

Within the square brackets, ``, `?`, and `\` match themselves. *All other characters match themselves.

To match ``, `?`, or the other special characters, you can escape them by using the backslash character, `\`. For example: `\\` matches a single backslash, and `\?` matches the question mark.
